Passionate Death: Murder at the Polo Grounds Laura Ginter

Louis LaChance, world famous polo player and philanthropist dies after falling off his pony at the Empire Polo Club in Indio, California. The coroner confirms what the police already suspect - Louis LaChance was murdered. But until the autopsy reports are finalized, the cause of death is uncertain, and no obvious motive exists. Detective Peter Pahan's is assigned the job of solving LaChance's murder. He has a list of eight suspects - seven women with suspicious ties to Louis, and one handsome polo player who himself, has just exposed a shocking secret. With the help of Grunter Dog, his four-footed partner, Pahan seeks out the colorful suspects to discover their ties to LaChance and their motivations for wanting him dead. He uncovers many risqué secrets and some unexpected and disturbing motives, but the evidence is pointing to a beautiful woman who is photographed near Louis at the time of his death. The mysterious "Lady in Lavender".

PETER PAHAN, is an award-winning writer of mystery novels. He enjoys making himself the main character in his fiction, and he loves alliteration. (Editor's note: That's when the first letter of both person's names start with the same letter.) PASSIONATE DEATH: MURDER AT THE POLO GROUNDS is his best work to date. (Editor's note: meaning it has the fewest typos of any of his other books.) He currently lives at the Indian Wells Homeless Men's Shelter, and solicits donations for the nonprofit at the Albertson's at the corner of Monterey and Country Club in Palm Desert, California. DAPHNE DUVALIER is a deaf, blind illustrator of romance novels and marriage guides. She also teaches dance at her private studio behind Chaste Makes Waste Massage Parlor in Palm Desert. You can see more examples of her work at Candy Cain Art Gallery in Cathedral City. This book is rated 'R' for racy, and should not be read by virgins.
